MANGIA! MANGIA!

No time to plan a trip to the Italian countryside? Don't fret! You can feel like you're indulging abroad when dining at Fiola da Fabio Trabocchi, a modern-style trattoria found in Penn Quarter between 6th and 7th streets, where chef and owner Fabio Trabocchi ensured that Fiola's interiors would have the same stunning impact as its spellbinding dishes. fioladcc.com

SEE TO BELIEVE

Known for its fascinating displays of modern and contemporary art set alongside magnificent garden sculptures, the Hirshhorn Museum and Sculpture Garden—an extension of the Smithsonian—delivers once again with Barbara Kruger's "Belief+Doubt." This large-scale art presentation of thought-provoking words hits your psyche upon impact as you enter the museum lobby. On display through December, this exhibit is a definite do-not miss. hirshhorn.si.edu

RENEWED LUXURIES

Kiss your beauty woes goodbye as you step into Celadon, one of downtown D.C.'s premier spas for indulgent beauty services. Become acquainted with the new you by trying one of Celadon's many pampering treatments. We suggest starting with the Renew mani-pedi—complete rejuvenation from fingertips to toes—and those lust-worthy Deborah Lippmann polishes, available in an array of hues, are to die for! celadonspa.com

HISTORIC PRESENCE

Step back in time at The Inn at Little Washington—about an hour outside of D.C., and into Virginia—and prepare to be enchanted. Romantic interiors beckon an age of old-world sophistication, while chef and owner Patrick O'Connell's American cuisine will have you savoring every bite. From the quaint lodgings to nearby art galleries and shopping, the entire town appears to have been perfectly preserved. While there, pick up the chef's cookbook and try your hand at creating your own tasty fare. theinnatlittlewashington.com
