THE INN AT LITTLE WASHINGTON NAMED #1 IN ALL CATEGORIES IN THE 2013 ZAGAT GUIDE

The Zagat Guide has released the results of the 2013 Washington DC/Baltimore Restaurant survey and The Inn at Little Washington was once again tops in all categories with a near perfect 29 out of 30 score for food, décor and service. The Guide sites The Inn's creation of "a life-altering experience" for our guests and that they are "'pampered in all directions' in an 'intimate', richly embroidered setting, where 'revelatory' multicourse repasts are 'prepared with extraordinary skill' and seasoned with a 'touch of whimsy'".

September 9, 2012 - Patrick O'Connell, Chef/Proprietor of The Inn said "Our entire team was thrilled to learn today that we received the highest ratings possible in all three categories of the Washington DC Zagat Restaurant Survey for 2013. This is a wonderful acknowledgement of the hard work and dedication on the part of our staff during the past year. It's especially heartwarming to know that almost 17,000 independent respondents rated The Inn at Little Washington as the top restaurant in the Metropolitan Washington DC area." O'Connell continued "This most recent accolade comes at a perfect time as it coincides with The Inn's 35th Anniversary Celebrations beginning in January. We couldn't ask for a more wonderful birthday present."

The Inn has also been recognized in last two months as the longest tenured AAA Five Diamond Restaurant and as one of the top 5 resorts in the world for food and wine by Andrew Harper's Hideaway. In addition, the restaurant's wine list received the Wine Spectator Grand Award for the 17th consecutive year.
